Whites Defeat Reds In Second Battle

In the final game of the series last Monday, the Whites were victorious over the Reds by a score of 15 to 11, thus clinching the right to defend the basketball title of the Canyon. Games also were played Friday and Saturday, when they met the Western Mountaineers. The game was a fast one, and the Reds realized that they were facing a one game handicap, were out to even things up. The basket shooting of both teams for the first ten minutes of play was almost perfect, and the Whites did exceptionally well in his blocking and basket shooting, and Richards nailed the ball with almost accurate precision. Dimes and dimes played good ball, passing and shooting the ball in rapid time. Parter seemed unable to score, but he did some good guarding and prevented his team from getting any great amount of goals.

In a battle royal the whites defeated the Reds by the small margin of 15 to 11, in the first of their three-game series. The contest was one that was viewed with interest by the one hundred and fifty student present. The play started fast, at the first blast of the whistle, with most of the spectators looking the Reds. However, after the first ten minutes of play the interest was more divided. In the final plays of the game, the whites fought hard, but two baskets by Wright put the Reds close behind and for the last minute of play neither team scored.

THE PROM

The Junior Promenade is now history as far as this season is concerned, and as is always the case with this social event, the success of the affair is worthy of comment. The effectiveness and beauty of the decorations again shows that home talent can create effects equal if not superior to any coming from outside decorators. The motif and scheme is the result of cooperation with the art department.

Needless to say that the work represented in the building of the beautiful garden in which the Prom was held, is of such a magnitude as could only be accomplished through continued cooperative class efforts.

Although the music, at times, was hardly up to college prom standard, the atmosphere of the evening was indeed one of refinement and culture.

An especially noteworthy feature of this year's prom was the extensive representation of the student body. In many cases only the so called "elite" are represented at such an affair. It was gratifying to note that practically every type of student was represented.

during the evening. It was indeed a comopolitan Prom.

The committee, if it was human enough to hope for a successful affair, should feel satisfied and fully repaid for its efforts.

IT

"It" is indeed a wonderful thing we have in the student body this year. "It" will sound all bells and make all possible fuss when affairs are going in its favor. "It" will be in a most jubilant mood when victory is safely tucked away for our team. "It" will back the team to the limit when luck is with them.

But when conditions are not so bright what will "it" do? If the basketball men do not win every game, "it" slumps disgusted back into a corner.

One need not read newspapers or listen to gossip to know of the standing of Young University. Just listen to "It" and "it" will tell all. If Young has been fairly beaten, "it" will support the representatives of the student body in contest in a half-hearted manner or not at all. But if Young is on a winning streak "it" will come forth to show all of the support which could be shown. However, "it" does not consider it a duty to help the team get into a winning stride.

Indeed "it" is a most peculiar thing. "It" is that wonderful thing we find in the student body this year. "It" is the "sixth man". The occasion of this writing is because of the support given the basketball team since they lost a few games.

A REMINDER

When conditions are normal, men act natural. This is the time to know a man as he is.

This statement seems ordinary and common place, but the truth of the matter is that a statement is equally as plain and simple.

It is because of such simple truths that a gentle hint is thrown out to the thinking students of the student body at this time. Who will be next year's student body president? Who will be vice president for next year? In general, who is going to compose the group that will direct student affairs next year?

Some quiet individual observation of possible candidates will not be at all out of order at this time.

Co-eds on the staff of the Dakota Student Body are to write all news for one issue of the paper.

Women students at University of Pennsylvania may make it if they do so only in their own rooms.

IGNATZ'S PHILOSOPHY

WE NAME FOR THE HALL OF FAME

Professor Ignatz for his untiring efforts in assembly. More than once he has been seen in the hall, wearing sweat, but with perseverance and determination he has set his mind on the job and finally been able to ease himself into perfect oblivion. Fred Hinkley, because of the wonderful growth on his upper lip of three months of encouragement and what he proceeds to the world of a mystic. We might also mention Joe Nelson in the same connection. The students of the Sophomore class we think are entitled to the distinction of becoming members of the hall of fame, because of the loyalty to their class and their desire to do something to make themselves famous but because they have tried so hard to become so and any way they're here at us if we didn't mention them.

SONG HIT

"How can she sleep in a bed when so much of her is on the dresser."

SMART LINES

Elin Robinson says Gail Plummer is so smart she mistakes him for ladies.

Question: What song does a cow sing when her tail is cut off?

Answer: I miss my tail.

Rachel Holbrook says: "The reason I'm so bright is that half of my ancestors are women."

Alasance makes the heart grow fonder. That's why I love school.

MURDER

"Breaking into basements is bad business."

"Why, would the coat chase?" "It might, if it wouldn't, the kidnapping would."

Ignatz says: "Life is but a sheet of paper wall, upon which each of us may write our word or two—end the fountain pen goes dry."

She—I'm so uncomfortable, there's something rough like a cork inside my stocking.

He—Too bad. Came from the left, I suppose.

No Lady, puppy love is not a hot dog.

DEFINITIONS WE SHOULD KNOW

AIRL—The first speaker. BACE—That part of the body to which your friends direct their remarks when he tells you to be trash. RIDDLE—The art of introducing a vulgar fact in a kindly way.

Utah and Young Compromise On Series

Defeat of Previous Night
Fires Y Men With Desire for Sweet Revenge.

The Cougars out passed and out shot the invading Utes in Saturday night's contest, and came out on the long end of a 26 to 17 score as a result. Determination to win was shown in every play of the Cougars. A feature of the game was Bob Howard's ability to recover the ball from the Utah backfield. Time and again the "Y" guard matched the spire from the board and with the aid of his four team mates worked the ball to a scoring position with a speed rivalling that of lightning.

Most of the goals made by the Utes were the result of well placed long shots.

The Ute machine fought hard but were unable to do as accurate basket shooting as on the previous night. Down making only one field goal.

WHITE QUINTETTE TO VISIT MOUNTAINEERS

Friday and Saturday nights in Gunnison, Colorado, a battle will be staged between a Cougar team and the quint of the Western State Teachers College. The battle has all the earmarks of a hard fight, with the fighting Cougars making their first appearance in Colorado and the Mountaineers determined to avenge the defeat of last year.

The white team won the privilege of taking the tip as a result of defeating the Reds in the first game of a scheduled three game series. Among those who may make the trip are: Red Swenson, Dave Pearce, Owen Rowe, "Sanky" Dixon, Wesley Lloyd and "Bobby" Richards. Hope says that the teams will have a fifty-fifty chance to win the series, and usually hope is fairly accurate when it comes from the Coach of the two schools. The Teachers are at the other position in their division, but are playing a fairly good brand of ball from all reports. The Cougar falls have shown up well as all counts they have entered this year and should make it interesting for the Coloradoans.

The purpose of arranging these games is for the development of variety material for next year. A squad of three teams has been kept busy every night so far this year, thus giving a large number of men a chance to help in the game and at the same time developing new material for future years.

This game will not count on the percentage column, but will furnish some practice for next year's teams and at the same time give them a return game for the Colorado Lion.

The game will not count on the percentage column, but will furnish some practice for next year's teams and at the same time give them a return game for the Colorado Lion.

The schedule for the games will be made out this week. It has not been decided whether the games will be open to the public or for Association Women Students only.

Cougars Play Super Ball but Unable to Overcome Ute Lead in Friday Game.

Although it was in their hub and feeding grounds, the B. Y. U. Cougars were unable to overcome the red jacketed Redskins in the encounter last Friday night and were defeated by a score of 29 to 24 for the Utes. It was, however, a very hard game throughout the second half until the game reported the end, and the "Y" lost by only two baskets and a final point.

The game started out with B. Y. in the lead, but not for long as the first fouled and foul-balled. Boring played his wonderful game and was here, there, and everywhere during the first half. It seemed as though "Shaw" wasn't given a chance to get loose, since they kept him under close guard during the first period. Dixon and Swenson got under for a few goals in the first half, but only enough to aggregate thirteen, while Utah missed a score of twenty-two.

After returning to the floor for the end round the Cougars made 17 points while Utah made only 22, thus placing the "Y" men in the lead with a 29 to 30 score. At this point of the game pandemonium broke loose, and Utah called time out to get their bearings, about the Youngsters had completely taken them off their feet.

During the second half, Boring was placed in the lead. At this point the Utes got their second wind and Boring dropped in a nice long one from the center of the field and was soon followed by Dixon, thus placing them in the lead. At last the Young wildcat score with a goal, it was immediately followed by Utah. The last few minutes of play Utah was taking no chances, and held to a defensive play, making the ball for Young's territory, until some Cougar broke up the play and forced them hand.
